Nellie E. Asher, the petitioner, testified as to her marriage to Mr. Asher and said that the last four years of their married life had not been what it used to be although she had done everything possible to get Mr. Asher everything possible to get Mr. Asher to live with her and had endeavored to have him give up this other woman. to hive with her and had endeavored to have him give up this other woman. She said it was a matter of some four years ago that she heard from her husband's own lips that he was infatuated with another woman, but he did not tell her the woman's name. Even after having instituted proceedings for a divorce she withdrew the case, and tried to get Mr. Asher to give up the other woman, but without success. She entered into this action at the present time very rejuctantly, and only after she was actually forced to do so by the continued actions of her husband. She told the court from what she had heard her husband say that he was worth from $75,000 to $100,000. There was no further testimony and Judge Bennett granted the divorce upon the ground set forth in the complaint and also allowed Mrs. Asher alimony of $25,500. Attorney Edward M.
